(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Nov. 30.—Work was started this morning in the tearing down of the old warehouse of the Fred J. The companies have erected new warehouses which they are occupying. The new freight sheds will be 200 yards in length and will be thoroughly fire-proof. At present the concrete gang employed on the foundation of the new depot numbers 50 men, and this number will be doubled as soon as the old warehouses have been removed and space cleared for further foundation construction.

Work on the depot and platform will continue throughout the winter and will probably be completed in June.

Kanab Citizens Will Replace Big Dam Destroyed by Flood

Site where big dam will be rebuilt.

Citizens of Kanab will begin work next week repairing the big dam which was washed out September 1 and it is expected that this work will result in restoring several thousand acres of valuable land to the alfalfa producing region next spring.

The Kanab farmers were unable to negotiate a loan for the work on satisfactory terms, so they decided to issue $300,000 in scrip, redeemable in one, two and three years, and begin the repair work immediately.

Several tons of powder have already been ordered and a large force of men and teams will be available for the work next week. The illustration shows the scene of the washout.

FINDS MINE WITH A DIVINING ROD

Montana Man Who Has Won Three Fortunes Has Fourth in Sight.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Helena, Mont., Nov. 30.—Mining experts confirm the report that Robert A. Bell, with a good old-fashioned divining rod, has located a mine in Jefferson county. The first report was published some time ago, but today mining men who have examined the location say Bell will be richer than he ever was, although he has made and spent three fortunes.

Mr. Bell has received not a few queries concerning his divining rod, its powers, and the like, and in an interview he has endeavored to make explanation. He said:

"I had heard a great deal about the power which some people were said to possess in locating mineral bodies underground, through the use of the divining rod, and I determined to try it. As a boy back east I used to use a willow pronged switch and could always locate water. Recently I got a willow switch and was quite surprised when it dipped, as I knew I was over a mineral-bearing body."

"Then I tried it on unexplored ground and the stick dipped as I went along. Whenever I got out of the trend of the stick resumed a horizontal position. I located three new veins on the B. & O. through the use of the rod. One of the miners tried it and there were one or two who were able to make it operate. I believe the earth's axis is strange, but I can no longer detect the presence of water with this stick, but I can detect the presence of mineral."

"Asked further to explain his theory, Bell said that some persons possess a peculiar sort of magnetism or electricity. The forked stick acts as a conductor; if one is positively charged and the mineral is charged with negative electricity, the stick is pulled downward, but if both are positive or both negative, then a repulsive force is set up and the stick is inclined upward."

Bell lost his last fortune betting on Bryan.

ROBBED HIS ROOMMATE.

Jury Finds Stephen McCarty Guilty of Petit Larceny.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Nov. 30.—Holding that the value of the stolen goods did not exceed $50 and therefore did not constitute a grand larceny case, a jury in the district court this morning brought in a verdict of guilty of petty larceny against Stephen McCarty, charged with robbing his roommate, Egbert Watterson, who entered the Wilson Brothers grocery store several weeks ago and was beaten unconscious by the proprietor after he had fired two shots, changed his mind and withdrew his plea. Watterson asserts that his crime merely constituted an attempt at robbery, as he was prevented from carrying it out.

He was remanded to the county jail and charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder will be filed against him by the county attorney.

EDWIN EVANS WINS THE STATE PRIZE FOR ART

Professor in University of Utah Carries Off Award of $300 with Landscape Canvas.

Reports on the awards made by the judges in connection with the recent exhibition held by the State Art Institute at Ogden, with announcements from various committees, were made last night at a meeting of the governing board of the institute, held at the residence of Mrs. E. Bonnemont, in East South Temple street. The exhibition, which closed last Saturday night, at the assembly room of the Ogden High school, was one of the most successful ever given. There were 151 pictures on exhibition, a good representation of the work of Utah artists.

The judges counted the ballots Monday. Much interest was shown in the winning of the first state prize of $300, the winner of which was determined by popular vote. The prize was won by Edwin Evans, a well known Salt Lake artist, professor of art at the University of Utah. The winning picture was a beautiful landscape, showing several stacks of grain.

From now on this painting will be numbered among the institute treasures, becoming a part of the collection. Under the new state law this prize will be awarded to Mr. Evans, at a date yet to be decided upon, by Governor William S. Bary.

The Springfield prize of $150 was won by J. T. Harwood, with his painting, "An Insectary Story."

The prize of $50, for the best drawing in black and white, went to Donald Beauregard; the $25 prize, for the best water color, was the between V. G. Browning, with his picture of "The Wickup," and J. T. Harwood, with his portrait, "Mr. Dangle." The $10 prize for the best design in needlework, was won by Ruth C. Evans.

The winner of the $25 architect's prize will be announced later.

The board received reports from the lecture board and from several committees in charge of the work. The lecture committee reported on the seven free lectures given by prominent artists and architects of Salt Lake at the recent exhibition, all of which were of high class and all free.
